To whom it may concern,

With this letter, I recommend Georgios FIOTAKIS, for your PhD Program.

I have had the opportunity to work with him, on different topics, at AKKA Technologies where I was his team leader for 8 months in 2020. He has proven outstanding skills in software architecture and development. He delivered quality tools and documentation.

What I found interesting in Georgios' profile is his high technical skills and his ability to adapt.

In fact, he changed subjects and technologies multiple times with ease. He took on a complicated micro-services-based architecture subject with little help. He also learnt French in less than a year and became very fluent, which is another sign of a high capability to adapt.

Personality wise, Georgios has a social intelligence that allows him to communicate easily. He brings a good spirit to any team he joins. He thus is also a good communicator.

From my personal experience, being a PhD myself, I think he has the right flexible, curious and creative mind-set to succeed any research subject he takes on.

For all the above reasons I believe Georgios would be a great addition to your program.
