To Whom It May Concern:

It is with much enthusiasm that I recommend George Fiotakis for its application for a phd in cloud-computing or any carrier development in software architecture and development.

When I met Georgios, I was managing customer support activities, including presales and after sales operations around our software products dedicated to digital mockup for manufacturers. In this role, I was leading a project to set-up a mixed-plateforme between Microsoft solutions and a REAL FUSIO software product called 3D Juump Infinite.

During this project, Georgios has been really central to propose architecture and integration solutions, exposing its ideas to all persons involved in the project internally and externally. Georgios has developed most of the architecture to integrate our plateforme inside Microsoft environment. He was particularly careful about security aspects and directly worked with the IT team in charge of network security for that.

Georgios hosts an incredible amount of energy combined with a stable labour force. He has been able to integrate so quickly the project and team, in a mixed language exchange environment (english and french) while he was in France for a few months only. His capacity to adapt to situations and his technical skills make me believe without any doubt that Georgios will take up any new challenge.

Please let me know if I can provide any more information to strengthen Georgios's candidacy.

Sincerely,

David Roche
